

Tale Of Southland's Jet-Speed Rabbits Wins Liars' Award

BURLINGTON, Wis. (AP)—A fib about jet-speed rabbits, nurtured in the Southland to the status of a fancy fable, has won the title World's Champion Liar for Shelton R. Day, Baton Rouge, La., in the 1954 parade of fabrication by the Burlington Liar's Club.

Shelton's tale was announced today as the big whopper of the year and he won custody, for one year, of the club's gold-plated, diamond-studded medal. His story: "The swamp rabbits down this way are so fast that we use high-powered rifles to hunt them instead of shotguns. Even the hunters never get any, unless they know the trick. To bag these rabbits on the run you have to aim fast, shoot, and then let out a shrill whistle. When you whistle the rabbit stops—and the bullet has a chance to catch up with him!"

Honorable mention went to these epics: J. E. Tingey, of Elk, Wash. related, "cyclones do funny things."

Last year one came through my place. I had a sack of shelled corn hanging on a nail on the side of the house. The cyclone blew away the sack, and left that corn hanging from the nail like a swarm of bees."

Rudy Busses, East Gary, Ind., reported, "My uncle is a farmer, the biggest and the richest in South Dakota. He is so rich that he carries his hay in his pocketbook—and stacks his money out behind the barn."

O. C. Huelt, president of the club, says that in honor of the club's silver anniversary, the biggest liar of the past quarter century has been selected. He is the 1953 winner, Bruno Ceresa, who lived last year at Langeloth, Pa. His whopper:

"My grandfather had a clock so old that the shadow of the pendulum, swinging back and forth, had worn a hole in the back of the case!"

Strip-Tease Dancer Insures Physical Assets For Million

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—General Motors has more money in the bank, but no Wall Street corporation can ever hope to match the capital structure of Tempest Storm, Inc.

Certainly, no other corporation has such well rounded assets. Tempest Storm is a strip tease dancer with the kind of figure that must give Dior frantic frustration. She has a 41 inch bust.

No Sweater Girl
That makes her different from most girls. In fact, she's the kind of girl who wears a sweater only when she's cold. Other than make her itch, a sweater does little else for her.

Draping a $7,500 mink coat on one arm and a press agent on the other, the red haired Miss Storm breezed into the austere Boston Room of the Statler Hotel Thursday to sign up for one million dollars worth of body insurance with Lloyds of London.

Man Who Worked As Waitress Held On Bogus Check Charges

ANN ARBOR (AP)—A 34-year-old man who police said worked as a waitress in Michigan and Texas is being held here for investigation of bad check charges.

Police said Dale Sexton, 34, was arrested while working as a girl car-hop at a drive-in restaurant in Longview, Texas. He was returned to Michigan Wednesday to face uttering and publishing charges.

Police quoted Sexton as saying he also had worked as a waitress in South Lyon and Gaylord.

Capt. R. J. Gainsley said Sexton described himself as a "sexual changeover." Sexton told police his female impersonation made check passing easier.

Obstacles Remain Before 500,000 Germans Rearm

Rise In Stocks Watched Closely By Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal officials in Washington are keeping an ever closer watch on the stock market, as it continues to touch new highs.

Their vigil is concentrated on the use of credit. If borrowing to buy stocks grows to proportions that responsible officials here feel makes the market subject to a price collapse, credit controls enforced by the Federal Reserve Board would be stiffened. There is as yet no indication that the situation has gone that far. But it could change swiftly.

Loans Increase
The Federal Reserve Board has authority to raise the margin requirements on stock market operations from the present 50 per cent cash requirements. The board in February 1953 reduced the cash requirement to 50 per cent from the 75 per cent imposed early in 1951 as an anti-inflationary measure.

The board could also act less directly by tightening up on the supply of money and credit in general. This would have the effect of raising interest rates, and of making loans harder and more expensive to get.

Loans to brokers in New York City Federal Reserve member banks stood at $1,915,000,000 on Dec. 29. That was an increase of 97 million dollars during the week, and was 219 million higher than a year earlier. Further sharp increases of that size could be a strong factor in the thinking of the Federal Reserve Board.

Trend Is Sound
Some factors appeared to indicate that for the present, at least, the stock market rise is largely based upon non-speculative elements.

Officials said these factors included: credit buying of stocks has not increased alarmingly; buying has been concentrated on industrial stocks, and has been further concentrated on shares of firms with good earnings and growth records; pension and mutual investment funds, which favor such stocks, have been large buyers; for tax reasons, many persons may be waiting for the new year to sell and take a profit.

Officials emphasized that it is not the mission of the government to control stock prices. The law requires the reserve board to use its powers "to prevent excessive use of credit."

Year-Long Prayer For Peace Begins In Churches Tonight

NEW YORK (AP)—A year-long, non-stop prayer for world peace begins at midnight tonight.

It starts in churches in 11 communities, and will be taken up in relays on subsequent days in other churches across the country.

Not until the end of 1955 will the final "amen" be spoken. The marathon "chain of prayer" was organized by the board of evangelism of the Methodist Church.

Britain Will Cut Down Debt To U. S. By $137,845,431

WASHINGTON (AP)—Britain arranged to make an annual payment of $137,845,431 today to cut down its multibillion-dollar postwar World War II debt to the United States.

With this installment, Britain's indebtedness to this country would be cut to $4,584,000,000 from a postwar high of $5,217,000,000.

Of this payment, some 84 million was earmarked to cover interest and 54 million principal. The payment, a draft from the Bank of England to the Federal reserve Bank in New York, will apply on a 3 3/4-billion-dollar loan extended in 1946 to spark Britain's postwar recovery. Britain has until the year 2,001 to repay it.

However, the British also owe the United States some $7,783,000,000 in World War I debts. These are in default. The last payment on them was made Dec. 15, 1933.

Bulldogs Chew Up Little Boy, 8

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP)—Two big, savage bulldogs leaped on an 8-year-old boy Thursday and chewed his arms and legs "down to the bone." It took nearly 150 stitches to close the wounds.

Roger Stokely was in General Hospital today, and his mother Mrs. Thomas K. Stokely said doctors "don't give us much hope for one arm and leg." Doctors said the arm muscles were torn badly and that on the left leg both muscle and skin were "just gone."

Roger was attacked while on an errand to the home of a neighbor, Gene O'Sullivan, owner of the dogs. The families live at Wellford, nine miles west of here.

Mrs. Estell Gosnell, Roger's grandmother, said she heard the boy's screams and rushed to his aid, managing to beat off the dogs.

Police said they do not plan any charges against O'Sullivan pending the outcome of the boy's condition. The dogs, which have current rabies immunization, were ordered confined 10 days for observation.

Frozen Pontiac Body Identified

PONTIAC (AP)—The frozen body of a woman found in an Oakland County picnic grove eight miles west of Pontiac has been identified as that of Mrs. Ruth J. Trenary, 41, a former patient in Newberry State hospital.

State police made the identification late Thursday from fingerprints.

Troopers said her maiden name was Ruth J. Haag. Records disclosed she lived on East Michigan Avenue in Howell, Mich., in 1953 and at 7252 Chalmers in Van Dyke, Mich., in 1952.

She was a patient in Newberry State Hospital in 1949. She was convicted of drunkenness and fined $10 Nov. 10, 1953, in Lansing.

Mrs. Trenary's body was found Wednesday by hunters. An autopsy disclosed she had died of pneumonia. Dr. John J. Marra who performed the post mortem said he found no signs of violence.

Police were puzzled, however, as to how the woman got to the isolated area where the body was found. She had been dead two or three days.

Lady Editor Who Lost Legs In Auto Mishap Gives Safety Advice

LOCK HAVEN, Pa. (AP)—Rebecca Gross, the lady editor who lost both legs in an automobile accident a year ago tonight, had this advice today for New Year's Eve motorists:

"The difference between safety and disaster is a hair's breadth at every crossing, curve or intersection, even on the straight highway."

Takes Year To Write

Last year—just before her accident—Miss Gross wrote an editorial urging highway safety. She ended it with "Who wants to start the new year in a hospital or a morgue?" She ended this year's editorial this way:

"As every accident victim knows, an accident can happen any time, anywhere, to anybody."

Miss Gross, now back at her desk at the Lock Haven Express, wrote an editorial summing up her thoughts on the first anniversary of her tragedy. It said in part:

"If all those who were injured in the automobile accidents of last New Year's Day could transmit their poignant knowledge of what traffic accidents mean to all who travel the highways this New Year season, the holiday accident record would fall."

Chrysler To Add 14-Mile Conveyor

DETROIT (AP)—Construction will begin next week on a four million dollar addition to Chrysler Corp.'s Chrysler Division plant which will enable it to increase production by 40 per cent, E. C. Quinn, division president, announced today.

The two-story addition will contain a 14-mile conveyor belt which will give Chrysler the longest continuous conveyor system in the auto industry, Quinn said. The belt will span the nine lanes of busy East Jefferson Avenue, one of Detroit's main traffic arteries.

The new addition, housing both body sub-assembly and painting departments, will enable the division to boost production from 54 to 75 bodies an hour, Quinn said.

Total auto production will increase to 1,200 cars a day with a proportionate increase in employment, he said. Chrysler Division currently employs 16,500 workers.

Adenauer Faces Fresh Trouble With Coalition

PARIS (AP)—The battle for West German rearmament thundered on throughout Europe today despite Premier Pierre Mendes - France's victory in the French National Assembly. The Paris treaties enlisting 500,000 German troops in Western defense face many more obstacles before final ratification.

It might be summer before the Bonn government could begin organizing the 12 divisions of soldiers, the air force of about 1,200 planes and the small coastal navy the plan provides for.

Treaties Not Ratified

The French National Assembly approved 287-260 Thursday the last of the accords after nine days of bitter debate. But even in France, the ratification process was far from complete.

The Council of the Republic, Parliament's upper house, still must give its okay. Political observers predicted Mendes - France will have an easier time with the Council, which is expected to act sometime in February. But any changes or amendments it might adopt could take several months to iron out with the Assembly. Ratification of the various treaties also remains to be completed in the United States, Canada, Belgium, Italy, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Greece and West Germany.

Much To Be Done

The roughest road is expected in West Germany, where the strength of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's governing coalition has been whittled down in recent state elections. The Socialists, chief gainers at the polls, oppose the treaties—demanding further efforts to unite all Germany before going ahead with any rearmament or alliances.

Adenauer also is expected to have trouble with some of the parties in his coalition, which oppose the French-German agreement on the disputed Saar. This pact places the Saar under Western European Union control.

Government officials in Britain, Italy, Canada, Norway, West Germany and many other nations expressed satisfaction with the French vote, hailing it as a major step in building up the free world's defenses. President Eisenhower, vacationing in Augusta, Ga., expressed "great satisfaction." But he and other Western leaders warned that much still remained to be done before German rearmament became a reality.

There was no immediate official Soviet reaction to the assembly vote. Moscow warned two weeks ago that France would risk canceling the French-Soviet Friendship Treaty and lose any chance of a four-power meeting on international problems if the Paris treaties were ratified.

Eisenhower To Ask Boost In Minimum Wage To 90 Cents

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower will ask Congress next month to increase the national minimum wage from 75 cents an hour to 90 cents, it was learned here today.

Minimum wages come under the Fair Labor Standards Act, which covers about 24 million American workers.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, announced that Eisenhower will include a recommendation for a "substantial percentage increase" in the minimum wage in his State of the Union message to Congress Jan. 6.

Little Guy Mixed Up On What All Happened In '54

WASHINGTON (AP)—That man of the year, the little guy, looking at the calendar this New Year's Eve, could pat himself on the back for having lived another year without getting hit on the head with a bomb.

He hoped he would be around this same time next year. He could remember other years more clearly than he could remember most of 1954. It wasn't a bad year. He had a job. He had a home. He was doing all right, or so-so.

But most of 1954 was a mixture in his head: President Eisenhower, Joe McCarthy, the election in November. Some of the things which hadn't happened meant the most. For instance, he thought:

There wasn't any war. And because there wasn't he was still around instead of being a piece of ash in a city where a plane had dumped its hydrogen calling card.

The Russians kept talking of talking and coexisting things might be all right.

"I'll have to listen to the Republicans and the Democrats another whole year," he thought. "It's funny at the end of the year I never remember much they said."

Doctor To Have Sanity Hearing

LANSING (AP)—Dr. Charles A. Laughead, the former Michigan State College physician who was fired for his preachings of disaster, faces a sanity hearing today in Ingham County Probate Court.

A sister, Miss Margaret V. Laughead of Des Moines, Ia., has petitioned the court to declare Dr. Laughead mentally ill and have him committed to a state mental institution.

Dr. Laughead was asked to resign from MSC after Dr. John A. Hannah, college president, reported he was preaching "the end of the world" and "upsetting" college students.

Dr. Laughead described himself as a "reporter" for Mrs. Dorothy Martin, Oak Park, Ill., housewife, who declared she received word from beings in outer space that disaster would sweep away half the continent on Dec. 21.

However Mrs. Martin reported that a later bulletin from outer space had called off the disaster. Mrs. Martin had said flying saucers would swoop down to pick up her little group of believers on Christmas Eve.

In her petition, the sister said Dr. Laughead "has become a religious fanatic."

Dr. Laughead said he was confident he would prove his sanity and blamed "social pressure" for his sister's petition.

California Posy Crop Gets Chill

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—A windstorm and cold snap has left southern California's chrysanthemums sulking—causing a crisis in the decoration of Tournament of Roses floats.

Virgil White, chairman of the parade float decoration committee, said that 80 per cent of the flowers used are chrysanthemums.

"They won't open up," one decorator complained. "It got too cold for them."

Other flowers also were damaged by winds and Tuesday morning's frost. But the main troubles of Woody Kiersey, in charge of decorating eight floats, center around chrysanthemums.

"They got whipped by the wind and dried out," he said. "That makes the blooms fall off. Or else the buds won't open up because of the cold. Or when they do they're sort of bluish and off-color because they aren't really matured."

John Dunn, who is directing the job of readying Burbank's float, said he was turning lights and artificial heat on his flowers to try to make them think things are balmy in southern California.

The weatherman says otherwise: he predicts 35 to 45 degrees Saturday.

White said flowers are being flown in from other states and Hawaii.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—For the right to broadcast and televise the movie Academy Awards for the next six years, NBC will pay at least $1,050,000. The Board of Governors of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences approved the contract Thursday.

If NBC exercises options to broadcast and televise future nominations at $50,000 each for six years, the total fee will be $1,300,000.

CARL E. JOHNSON

Shop Boss Of Escanaba Press Retiring Today

Carl E. Johnson, 517 Ogden Ave., production superintendent of the Escanaba Daily Press, is retiring today after nearly 35 years of service with the newspaper. Johnson will be succeeded as production superintendent by Gust Trotter, another veteran employee of the Escanaba Press printing department.

Johnson, who was born in Escanaba Dec. 25, 1889, has been employed by the Press continuously since Feb. 1, 1920. He has been head of the printing department for more than 30 years.

Johnson got his start in the printing business with his father, the late Louis Johnson who owned and operated a Swedish language newspaper, "Medborgaren", in Escanaba years ago. Later he was employed by the old Escanaba Mirror.

Two of the employees who were working at the Escanaba Press—then the Morning Press—when Johnson began his employment with the Press are still working on the Escanaba newspaper staff. They are John J. McCarthy, linotype operator, and A. J. Schmeitzer, advertising coordinator.

When Johnson began his employment at the Escanaba Press, the newspaper produced six to eight pages daily. By today's standards, the printing equipment was slow and balky. Those were the days of "tramp printers", men who moved around the country working a week or month at a time, just long enough to earn a grub-stake and an extra jug of whiskey before moving to the next town. Almost every print shop had one or two of those men. The problems of a shop foreman provided a real headache in those days.

Johnson is a director of the Highland Golf Club and is a member of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church and the North Star Lodge, as well as the International Typographical Union.

Johnson's hobbies are golf and woodworking. He plans to devote much of his time to those hobbies and "just taking it easy." Johnson is being honored today at a party given by his fellow employees and the newspaper.

His successor as production superintendent, Gust Trotter, is also a veteran employee of the Escanaba Press. He has been in the printing business in Escanaba most of his life, many years as a Press employee. He also operated a job printing plant in Escanaba a number of years.

Voters To Decide:

Council To Submit Power Company Offer To People; New Price Is $1,200,000

John H. Warden, Houghton, president of the Upper Peninsula Power Company, told the Escanaba City Council in special meeting last night that his company is prepared to increase its price to $1,200,000 for the purchase of the city-owned electric distribution system.

This is $200,000 above the $1,000,000 made in a previous proposal on Aug. 10, when the U. P. Power Company submitted an offer to purchase in connection with a proposed solution of the city's power shortage.

A proposed contract or "proposition" as defined by city charter discussed by Warden and the City Council last night, preparing for special meeting to be held early next week in which the city will receive the Power Company's offer in final form.

People To Vote

In its final form the "proposition" providing for questions on the sale of the electric utility to the Power Company will be ready to submit to a vote of the citizens of Escanaba. Agreement on the proposed contract is expected to be reached early next week.

Sale of the utility must be approved by a three-fifths majority of the electors voting thereon. Both the City Council and the U. P. Power Company official indicated they would like to submit the question of the sale of the utility to the people as soon as possible.

The Power Company's supplemental offer, received by the city last night, was in response to a request made by Mayor Harlan Yelland, who noted at the opening of last night's meeting that under city charter a "definite proposition" must be prepared in contract form to submit to the people in referendum.

Detailed Proposal

Following discussion at last night's special meeting the proposed contract between the power company and the city, to be submitted to the people for a vote, is expected to take a final form to include:

- 1 — A purchase price of $1,200,000 for the electric utility.
- 2 — A rate schedule the same as now prevails in Escanaba.
- 3 — No increase in electric rates by the Power Company for three years.
- 4 — Construction of a 12,500 kilowatt electric generating plant within the city; interconnection with the Power Company's system at Gwin with a 69,000 volt capacity transmission line.
- 5 — Guaranteed offer of employment by the Power Company to all employees in the city electric department.

Would Build Plant

At the special meeting to be held early next week the Council and Power Company officials will also discuss the franchise question, which must also be submitted to a vote of the people.

In discussion last night, Warden assured the Council that in the event the company proposal is approved, construction of a generating plant would be immediately undertaken by the company and would be completed in an estimated 18 to 20 months. This site would be on the bay shore at the Escanaba North city limits.

The power plan outlined by Warden includes purchase by his company of the electric distribution system of the Upper Michigan Power & Light Company of Escanaba, should Warden's company buy the city's electric system.

Briefly Told

No Meeting—Because of the New Year's holiday Saturday, the monthly meeting of Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union 328 has been postponed one week and will be held Saturday, Jan. 8.

Drive Carefully; Be Alive In '55

Law enforcement officers of Delta County today joined in requesting cooperation of motorists in careful driving on New Year's Eve and over the holiday weekend.

Prosecuting Attorney Nicholas P. Chapekis pointed out that 19 persons have died so far in traffic accidents in Delta County. While not the highest toll on record it is above several past years and indicates the need for caution behind the wheel, he said.

The mixing of drinks with driving can be fatal—to the driver and other occupants of his car and to others on the highway, the law enforcement officers said. "If you drive, don't drink; if you drink, don't drive," still holds true as advice to New Year's celebrants, they said.

Longer hours of darkness, winter weather with snow and ice, frosted windshields—all these combine to make conditions more hazardous at this season of the year. "Drive carefully on this last day of 1954—and be alive in 1955," the law enforcement officers urged.

Few Basic Tips Make Your Home Different Looking

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Are you tortured with the problem of "how to be different" in your development home?

If so, forget it. It's simple if you'll keep a few basic tips in mind says James Merrick Smith, Miami decorator.

Smith who has just decorated six exhibit homes of ten thousand planned by Harland Bartholomew in Carol City, Florida, says you're a cinch to be different if you'll just develop a few basic ideas.

"Keep in mind," he says, "that eye space is important in a small room. Select furniture that is scaled to the room size. Large pieces are space eaters."

He suggests choosing open airy furniture. Such items as open arm chairs, armless divans and open headboards are all good choices.

Give your walls room to breathe. Don't clutter them with pictures. Use your imagination in putting decoration on the walls. Smith employed Florida materials such as shells, sprays of coral and seaweed, dried seed pods of tropical shrubs and trees on walls of these Carol City homes.

One inexpensive device he used on walls is the plywood cutout. Take any design you like from a stylized leaf to a fish. "If you live in the mountains you might prefer a bear or a tree shape." Cut it out of the plywood. Several of the same shape may be used or a number of different shapes might be grouped together.

Smith suggests a basic color scheme that will float through the house. It will make the house look larger and it won't be monotonous if you emphasize a different color in each room.

For the three bedroom, one and a half bathroom house in this development, Smith used an all-over color plan of two shades of blue and yellow. All walls were light blue. Yellow was used as the predominant color in the accessories of one room, dark blue in another with yellow and light blue accessories.

sories. In the living room the three colors were balanced.

He used lavender blue and gray for the four bedroom two bath house. Living room wallpaper is a chalky blue with lavender and silver. Blue dominated the room, gray and lavender were accessories. One bedroom emphasized the lavender shade and another small studio bedroom gave free reign to the gray.

"When you have such a color plan," advises Smith, "you can borrow accessories from one room to another. Or you can have upholstered pieces around without fear that they will clash."

Most of these Florida homes have sliding glass doors leading from the living room to the patio so he carried his color scheme and furniture style right out there.

If you want to use period furniture in your modern ranch style home, don't hesitate—unless of course it is massive Empire, Chippendale or another period which might overwhelm a little house, he says. French Provincial style was used by Smith in one of these homes and he found that "the style is particularly well adapted to small homes because the furniture is light in feeling and can be used informally."

Area rugs and plenty of uncovered floor space also give a feeling of spaciousness to the small room, he says.

In January, 1949, a temperature of 27.9 was recorded in Los Angeles, the lowest on record up to that time.

C&NW Train Blocks Crossing For 28 Minutes

Chicago & North Western freight train (No. 187) blocked traffic on Stephenson Ave. in the city of Escanaba for 28 minutes early today, according to a complaint filed by the city police department.

During the 28 minutes the crossing was blocked by the train, autos lined up for several blocks in both directions and an ambulance on an emergency call had to back up and cross on another street, police reported.

The crossing was blocked from 12:22 to 12:50 a. m. today. Police reported that an Allo ambulance, driven by Fred LaBranche, on an emergency call to Danforth, had to back up out of the traffic jam and go to N. 21st St. on 3rd Ave. to get around the train.

Autos were backing up, making u-turns and otherwise trying to extricate themselves from what the police described as a traffic "mess" caused by the blocked crossing.

Rehearing Will Be Asked By City In Power Rate Dispute

Escanaba City Council last night authorized City Attorney Denis McGinn to petition the Michigan Public Service Commission for a rehearing relative to its jurisdiction in a power rate controversy with the Upper Michigan Power and Light Company.

The Commission recently took jurisdiction and set a date in February for hearing of the case involving validity of the city's power contract with the company.

The city through its attorney will ask the Commission for a written opinion giving the basis in law for its taking jurisdiction in the power contract dispute.

Hearing Postponed In Kroll Gun Case

NEGAUNEE—Postponement of the hearing, instead of the scheduled trial resulted for John Kroll, 20, of Wells, in municipal court yesterday. Kroll is charged with carelessness, recklessness, but not wilfully or intentionally handling of firearms, as a result of his alleged firing of a round of .30-06 ammunition into Conservation Officer Arthur Saviluto's automobile on the night of December 16.

Kroll was arrested with Arthur Delvaux, 10, also of Wells, for headlighting deer and each was fined $100 plus $7.40 costs by Justice Arthur Burkman in Gwin. Kroll was released on bond from Marquette county jail and appeared in court yesterday with his counsel, Clair Hoehn, of Gladstone, and witnesses. He pleaded innocent to the gun handling charge.

Continuance of the case was requested by County Prosecutor Edmund J. Thomas because of the unavailability of a state witness.

The case probably will not be heard until after the new prosecutor takes office on January 1.

As 1955 Dawns, Americans Can Expect It Will Be A Good Year

AS the year 1955 dawns, we Americans can look forward with reasonable confidence that it will be a good 12 months.

The great threat to our safety and tranquility, the Soviet Union, is still the menace it was. But we are stronger in our ties with other free nations, and in our resolve to have the means to counter any blow the Russians may strike.

Furthermore, it has become clearer in recent months that in President Eisenhower we have a Chief Executive who is dedicated to the proposition that in the hydro-gen age there must be no more wars. He believes another world conflict would be a war of mutual annihilation.

This does not mean we would yield our liberties without a fight. It is our leaders best hope that if we are strong enough we can avoid war and still keep our freedoms.

Certainly we must all find comfort in this: That neither the President nor any other responsible officer of government sees war as desirable or inevitable. The whole burden of our national effort is toward assuring that it never happens again.

But the full promise of 1955 does not reside alone in the knowledge that our leaders are thus dedicated to our security. They are also acutely conscious of our wish to achieve a steady state of well-being, and hopes for this, too, seem bright.

The year just closed brought America's economy to its lowest ebb since 1950. Yet as 1954 ran out the signs were strong that a new surge of activity had begun. In some fields new records were set, and the country's mood again grew optimistic.

With this change, the specter of real depression, always a haunting memory for any who had known the 1930's, faded perceptibly. The fear of privation and hardship lessened.

To see this fear diminish is a heartening sight. Unhappily we cannot so easily rid ourselves of our other great fear—that the aggressive designs of Russia may plunge the world into atomic war.

But if we are true to the best we have in us as Americans, we will not let this fear drive us either to some kind of surrender nor to an impulsive lashing out at the enemy just to relieve the strain.

We will hold firm and steady until that day when the staggering threat of Russia shall somehow grow small—even though that may not be until many more years than 1955 have passed.

Words, Wit & Wisdom

By William Morris

"I am beginning to wonder," writes a Westchester County (N. Y.) housewife, "if our town is not gradually succumbing to a spreading plague of semi-literacy. It seems to me that the public pronouncements of our elected officials are showing less and less regard for correct grammar. Dangling participles and errors in agreement are commonplace in politicians' speeches and I suppose we may as well resign ourselves to the inevitable."

"But there have appeared recently in our town a series of signs which to my way of thinking make absolutely no sense. At the entrance to each municipal parking lot appears this notice: 'This is a Town of Blank Parking Area for your Courtesy and Convenience.' I can understand the 'for your convenience' part, but how in heaven's name can a parking lot exist for your courtesy?"

Now, now, dear lady, don't be so excited. What we have here is a comparatively routine example of a failing of many public servants—the inability to use one word when several will give a more "elegant" sound.

Courtesy, of course, means a polite act or considerate behavior towards others. The town council surely showed consideration for the townsfolk when they supplied parking space and the word "courtesy" might be justified for their action. Thus a case could be made for revising the sign to read "... as a courtesy for your convenience."

Political realists, however, would argue that there might be some new faces in the town council after the next election if these parking lots had not been established and that their action was therefore at least as "practical" as it was "courteous."

My suggestion would be to omit the offending phrase and I'm tempted to suggest that your town council go one step further and remove the signs entirely. After all, anyone with eyes knows that these are parking lots and few indeed would be the parkers who didn't know what town they were in. So, unless the signs also carry such pertinent information as a listing of the hours during which parking is permitted, it would seem that they could be dispensed with. My guess is that, in W. S. Gilbert's memorable words, "They'd surely not be missed!"

Try And Stop Me By BENNETT CERF

A meek little student from Joe Brandt's journalism class at UCLA went to fetch a cup of coffee in cafeteria near Bob Campbell's book emporium. When he returned, a scowling brawler had usurped his seat.

"Whaddya mean, it's your seat?" challenged the husky. "Prove it!"

"For one thing," said the student thoughtfully, "I left a piece of blueberry pie a la mode on the chair."

Dr. Otis Moore recalls a little verse he perpetrated when he was a carefree student in Iowa:

"Little drops of water,
Frozen on the walk,

Make the naughty adjectives
Mix in people's talk."

DDT Powder, Benzoate Aid Body-Lice Treatment

By EDWIN P. JORDAN M. D. — Written for NEA Service

Not long ago I received a letter from a correspondent which stated that she and her husband while taking a motor trip and staying in many different places picked up some lice. She writes that they have been unable to rid themselves of these pests. At about the same time a man wrote that a friend of his had acquired "crab lice" and also was unable to get rid of them.

These letters indicate that these dangerous and unpleasant insects are a menace even now, though there is always more trouble from them in times of war, famine, and overcrowded conditions.

SOME PEOPLE SEEM to have a special attraction for lice. Indeed lice will desert the bodies of those who are less attractive for them for more desired locations.

There are several kinds of lice which may infest human beings. Most of them like the human scalp except for the so-called "crab louse" which prefers the groin.

Lice lay eggs, or nits, on the body. These hatch in about seven days. The nits are not destroyed by most treatments, so that they must usually be taken care of in some other way.

THE PRINCIPAL methods of control are prevention of infestation and treatment of the unfortunate person who has acquired this vermin. Personal cleanliness is the most important part of prevention. There is no doubt that bathing in warm water and the use of soap at least once a week, together with frequent changes in clean clothing, reduces the chances of acquiring lice. In rapidly growing communities these vermin are frequently found even among clean families.

In the past treatment was often difficult because the substances which poisoned lice did not always work and their applications took a great deal of time and work on the part of the patient. Now, partly as a result of experience learned during the war, there are several quite satisfactory methods of eliminating lice from the human body.

THESE NEWER methods include the use of DDT powder, a substance known as benzyl benzoate, and for body lice a kind of bomb made up of what is called freon pyrethrum, which can be sprayed over the entire body in a few seconds providing a suitable place for use is available. In order to make any of these treatments successful, however, it is important to follow directions closely and, in the case of head lice, to guard against injuries to the eyes.

The female louse lays from 50 to 150 eggs a day and the average louse will live from thirty to forty days. We could part with this insect companion of man without regrets.

Besides the discomfort and embarrassment of having lice, there is real danger involved. Several diseases such as typhus and plague are carried by lice and the more people have them the more risk there is of spreading those diseases.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Maybe the new Congress will take due notice of the alleged damage that has been done to its reputation by outspoken members and will proceed to "censure" or "condemn" them.

Maybe some of the national church organizations which lately have been issuing pronouncements on the behavior of congressional committees now will prove their consistency by deploring not just one member's mistakes but the mistakes of other members, too.

But there are no signs of it, thus far. There is no evidence that the new virtue has lasted very long. On the contrary, the evidence points to the fact that only a number of Congress who fights communism can expect to bring down the wrath of his fellow members. Anybody else who is guilty of the same deviations from the "honor and decorum" of Congress can expect to go scot free.

More than a week has elapsed since an official document was released by the chairman of a House investigating committee. It reveals conduct much worse than anything charged against Senator McCarthy at any hearing, but it has not been given much publicity—and no indignant protests have come from those in the "left wing" or "center" or anywhere else who have been telling the country that the Wisconsin senator and his "methods" are singularly his own.

THE EVIDENCE

But here is the evidence as related by the chairman of a House investigating committee:

"Sixteen public hearings were held, in the course of which the patient attempt was made by the chairman to follow the procedure unanimously agreed upon in advance . . .

"The last public hearing was held on June 17th. Further public hearings were discontinued by a resolution passed by the majority at an executive meeting on July 2, 1954.

"The reason for the cessation of hearings was that the attitude and conduct of the ranking minority member had made it impossible to conduct orderly hearings. Among the obstructive and harassing acts of Mr. Hays—all of them during the public sessions—were these:

"He interrupted witnesses beyond all reason, attempting to frighten witnesses and to disorganize both the initial presentations and orderly interrogation by others. In one session of 185 minutes, he interrupted 246 times.

"When, after harrowing frequent interruptions by Mr. Hays, great numbers of which were on extraneous matters, a rule was passed by a majority that a witness was to be permitted to finish his presentation before being questioned, Mr. Hays angrily remarked that he would pay no attention to any such rule and would interrupt whenever he pleased; and this he continued to do.

"His interruptions were very frequently intemperate, both in tone and substance, and in purposeful disregard of parliamentary procedure and the rules of the House . . .

"He repeatedly, from the rostrum, vilified other members of the committee and questioned their good faith. He publicly accused the chairman of lying and being a coward . . .

FROM THE RECORD

There follows an illustrative excerpt from the record:

"Mr. Hays: I will say this to the gentleman, that out where I come from we have a saying that if a man doublecrosses you once, that is his fault; if he doublecrosses you twice, that is your fault. I just want you to know you won't get the second opportunity.

"The chairman: Even that statement is not going to provoke the chairman, but there is no living man can justifiably say that this chairman—that this man who happens to be chairman at this time—has ever doublecrossed anybody or he had failed to keep his word.

"Mr. Hays: I am saying both.

"The chairman: That is all right.

"Mr. Hays: Is that clear enough? There is no inference there, is there?

"The chairman: That does not disturb me a particle.

"Mr. Hays: I know. You are pretty hard to disturb. I thought they had more guts in Tennessee.

"The chairman: You are not going to provoke me. You need not worry. I have already made up my mind on that."

The chairman of that particular committee was Representative B. Carroll Reece, Republican, of Tennessee, and a former chairman of the Republican National Committee. Whether he is right or wrong in his viewpoint about tax-free foundations is not germane—though this writer happens to think the foundations are not guilty of the charges made against them—but the issue is the conduct of a House member before one of its duly constituted committees.

Representative Wayne L. Hays of Ohio, Democrat, under the constitutional right of free speech, can say what he pleases—even use intemperate language. The precedents are on his side—that is, with the exception of the resolution of last November "condemning" Senator McCarthy. But Mr. Hays is safe anyhow from censure by resolution. For his conduct occurred not during a fight against Communists in government, but only in fighting Republicans. (Reproduction Rights Reserved)

Beautiful Women May Toss Matador Luis Out Of Bullring

MATADOR LUIS IN ACTION: Tossed by this bull in Columbia, he came back to successfully dispatch him. But now beautiful women may do what the bull couldn't—toss him out of the ring.

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS—(NEA)—For the past year what is known as the International Set has wondered about Luis Miguel Dominguin—the "Matador of Beautiful Women" and whom he would eventually marry. They are also wondering if beautiful women will toss him out of the bullring.

Bullfighters have always had a magnetic attraction for women, but this one is something special. He is probably the handsomest Spaniard ever to have been poured into the matador's glamorous costume. He is also tall, slender, elegant and incredibly proud—to the point of arrogance—both in and out of the bullring.

Appointed official matador in 1944, the 28-year-old bullfighter astonished even his fans by his derring-do and immediately became famous at home and abroad. But now his career is in jeopardy—all on account of women. Public rumor has linked his name with a succession of movie stars and a couple of social registerites. He is enjoying a life of ease and luxury far removed from the austerities of his early training.

Until he was 25, Luis was so engrossed in becoming the king of bullfighters that he never had time to play.

"How could he?" explained a friend recently. "When a man fights an average of 84 corridas a year and spends most of his nights on the road to appear at a bullfight the following afternoon, there is not much opportunity for philandering. Toreros who do never last long, anyway."

Three years ago Luis Miguel had reached the point where he had earned millions of pesetas. He supported his entire family—father, mother, sisters and the innumerable hangers-on which invariably compose the retinue of a matador.

It was then he first made the gossip columns when he met Rita Hayworth, at Biarritz and at Deauville. He spent money like a Spanish grandee. Unlike his predecessors who never abandoned the bullfighter's costume, he took to casual sports clothes and formal evening wear. He was asked to all the big parties, hobnobbed with the social register.

Then it was rumored that the MATADOR LUIS AND AVA GARDNER: In no time at all, the superman of the bull ring found himself in her toils.

greatest of all matadors was to marry Angelita, convent-bred daughter of the Duke of Pinohermoso. The news shook Spanish nobility. A duke's daughter, they said, could never marry a bullfighter. Few toreros have ever married above their station for the simple reason that they usually come from humble families.

So Angelita was removed to a convent far from any bullring. But somebody pointed out that many proud aristocratic Spanish women were eager to attend the lavish parties which "handsome Luis" threw in his "fiancée"—country estate.

Anyway, by this time Luis had found out that there were attractive girls besides his compatriots and that life outside Spain was more interesting.

He began to be seen on the French Riviera, where he met Rita Hayworth, at Biarritz and at Deauville. He spent money like a Spanish grandee. Unlike his predecessors who never abandoned the bullfighter's costume, he took to casual sports clothes and formal evening wear. He was asked to all the big parties, hobnobbed with the social register.

His latest romance has been with Hollywood's Ava Gardner. Within no time at all, this superman found himself in her toils. Like Omphale, she had Hercules spinning at her feet.

But Hercules - Dominguin has reached the crossroads. Eminent patrons of bullfighting cannot believe that Luis Miguel has given up the bulls for good. On the other hand, is the handsome matador willing to continue to take wild chances on life?

Two years ago, he was badly gored in Venezuela. His recovery was slow because of inadequate medical treatment. Since then serious competitors have appeared in the ring such as Antonete, Bernardo, Chicuelo and even Ordonez, his brother-in-law.

Now his friends are wondering whether he will start on a new career in the movies. Another alternative is to marry a rich woman.

To the man who witnessed the terrible death of the famous Manolete and carried him away from the arena, the choice between once again facing the cries and jeers of a bloodthirsty crowd or living a happy, but uneventful married life must be a difficult one.

Edson In Washington

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—One of the funniest ironies of today's tangled international situation is provided by Soviet Russia's repeated expressions of annoyance over British Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill's revelation that he had ordered Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery to stack captured German arms at the end of the war for possible later use by Germans against Russia.

Radio Moscow and the Russian press first took up this case. They charged the British with disloyalty to wartime allies. Refusing to let this propaganda theme die, Russian Marshal Georgi Zhukov has now accused Churchill and Monty of treachery.

The fact that neither Churchill nor Montgomery has been able to find a copy of this order is a kind of British joke in itself. But this situation is topped by the certain knowledge that the Russians never destroyed any of the usable arms they captured from the Germans.

THE RUSSIANS TOOK THE SURRENDER of over 1,250,000 German troops on the eastern front after VE-Day. The total number of German casualties in the east—captured, killed and wounded—was reported by the Russians as 12 million.

This is obviously a gross exaggeration, as total German casualties on all fronts were under five million. But these figures give a rough idea on the amount of German arms that fell into Russian hands.

It is considered a safe assumption that no usable weapons were destroyed by the Russians. Proof of this is found in the fact that these weapons have turned up all over the world in the past ten years in what is the really grand betrayal of the postwar era.

This is the Communist international conspiracy to overthrow the free nations of the world and bring them under Moscow's control. The Russians have not hesitated to use force of arms for this treachery wherever they thought they could get away with it.

HOW MANY OLD GERMAN WEAPONS are still in use by border patrols, slave labor camp guards and satellite forces behind the Iron Curtain is, of course, unknown.

German arms have been taken from Chinese troops captured by United Nations forces in North Korea. German arms have been found on Communist Viet-Minh casualties captured or killed by the French in Indo-China.

Germans arms of World War II vintage have also been taken from nationalist fanatics in Tunisia and Morocco. Somehow, the Communists managed to smuggle these arms to the Arab revolutionists for their fight to overthrow French control in North Africa.

There were some old German arms in the 10 million shipment which the former Communist government of Guatemala bought from Red Poland and Czechoslovakia, just before last June's revolt.

IN MANY CASES, new ammunition of Communist manufacture was supplied to fit these old German weapons.

So when the Russians try to accuse the British of treachery for issuing an order that can't be found to carry out an operation that never came off, the Communists are overlooking a double cross of their own that can't be equaled in history.

The story of what happened to German arms captured by the Allies in western Europe is far different. About five million Germans laid down their arms on the western front. A million and a half Germans surrendered to U. S. forces.

Trucks and other usable equipment were put into service by local commanders. Ammunition was blown up or carried to sea and dumped. The weapons were broken up and melted into scrap in a huge junking operation—and mistake—that wasn't completed until midsummer of 1947.

Axel Swansons Honor Guests At Parish Reception

Mr. and Mrs. Axel Swanson, 1311 1st Ave. S., widely known residents of Escanaba, whose golden wedding anniversary was Dec. 24, were honored by members of Central Methodist parish and other friends at a reception Wednesday evening at the church.

The church which Mr. and Mrs. Swanson have attended many years was crowded to its capacity for the affair.

The program of the evening, opening with an invocation by the Rev. Eric Hammar of Stephenson, included talks by Wilmore K. Berglund, president of the official board, the Rev. Karl J. Hammar, pastor, and Miss Lynn Bergman, a granddaughter, whose "Reminiscences" was beautifully presented, vocal solos by the Rev. Erick Hammar, Mrs. Eric Hammar and Mrs. Arthur Olson, with accompaniment by Mrs. Anna Harrod, and a group of violin numbers by Mrs. Arol Beck who was accompanied by Mr. Beck.

Presentation of a golden wedding gift, a purse, was made by Mr. Berglund in behalf of members and friends of Central Church.

The program in the church auditorium was followed by a fellowship hour in the church parlors. Decorations in an effective gold and white theme were arranged by Mrs. Lency Clairmont, daughter of the honor couple, and Mrs. Earl Haddy. The lunch was served by the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Mrs. Karl J. Hammar presided at the silver service and the couple's two granddaughters, Mrs. George Rodman of Evanston, Ill., and Miss Lynn Bergman, served the wedding cake and the punch.

Your Baby

Be reasonable about Baby and dirt—they love each other. Assume an attitude of quiet resignation and just decide that the clean little rompers are going to be filthy at the end of the stay outdoors. Don't jerk him up and dust him off every ten minutes. The dirt won't hurt him, though your fastidiousness may. He enjoys messing. Then, at the end of the day, convey him swiftly to the bathroom, put the dirty clothes in the hamper, wash and dress him in a clean nightgown. He will enjoy being clean at this time.

MRS. OAKMAN J. Holdup Slaying Partner Freed

DETROIT (AP) — George Wruble, 46, was free today after serving 20 years of a life sentence for the part he played in the 1933 holdup slaying of a Detroit dentist.

Wruble's freedom represented a victory for Recorder's (Criminal) Judge W. McKay Skillman who had fought a long battle with the State Parole Board on Wruble's behalf.

Judge Skillman ruled in 1950 that Wruble had been found "guilty as charged" by a jury and not guilty of first degree murder, as had been assumed. He reduced the offense to second degree murder, imposed a sentence of 15 to 18 years and credited Wruble with the time he had served.

The parole board fought the action, however, contending that Skillman had violated the governor's power of clemency.

Wednesday, the State Supreme Court upheld Judge Skillman. Thursday Judge Skillman set Wruble free.

Wruble was convicted of slaying Dr. Julian Harris in the robbery coexistence. So long as they kept of a Detroit handbook. Wruble's companion, police said, fired the fatal shot.

Take Your Choice Of New Year Days In Middle East

CAIRO (AP) — You can say "Happy New Year" almost any day in the Middle East. So many different calendars are in use that somebody's New Year's Day is bobbing up almost all the time.

The Moslem calendar has its New Year moving through the seasons year after year. Used by the majority of the 40 million Arabs in this region, the Moslem calendar has lunar months, so that the year is a few days shorter than the Western year.

The Moslem calendar dates from the Hegira, or flight of the prophet Mohammed from Mecca to Medina. This date corresponds with July 16, 622, of the Christian era.

But Persian Moslems celebrate their New Year March 21, the first day of spring. Their calendar also dates from the Hegira, but they follow the solar instead of the lunar system. The Persian year is 10 days shorter than the Hegira year.

New Year's Day fell on Sept. 28 for the Jews in the Middle East this year. Dated from the "creation of the world," the Jewish calendar is a compromise between a lunar calendar and a solar year. The Jewish New Year varies between Sept. 6 and Oct. 5.

Most Christians in Egypt don't celebrate New Year's Saturday. The Copts, who comprise the large majority of Christians in the Nile Valley, have their New Year's Day either Sept. 11, 12, or 13. This year is 1670 for the Copts, who date their calendar back to the "Year of the Martyrs," when Christians were massacred by the Emperor Diocletian.

The Coptic calendar takes its form from the ancient Egyptian year, based on three agricultural seasons. These seasons still carry their ancient Egyptian names in Egypt. The ancient Egyptian calendar goes back more than 6,000 years.

Greek Orthodox Christians here follow the Western calendar in everyday affairs, but in church matters their New Year's Day comes Jan. 13, following the Julian Calendar.

Canadians Ship First Marten To Upper Peninsula

Story and Photos
By KEN LOWE

SHINGLETON — The first pine marten known to exist in the Upper Peninsula in many years is being harbored here while waiting release in a new wilderness home.

He is the first specimen to be received from Canada for introduction into the Northern Peninsula in an experiment aimed at re-establishing the tawny furbearer in this area.

Program Temporarily Stymied

Last week, the department announced that its marten program had been temporarily stymied because Canadian trappers who had been counted on to live-trap the animals had turned instead to the more lucrative field of uranium prospecting. The announcement had scarcely been made when the department was notified that a marten had been delivered to Sault Ste. Marie by the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests.

The immigrant, trapped in the White River area of western Ontario, had been flown to the Sault. He was picked up there and taken by car to the Cusino Wildlife Experiment Station here to be housed until plans for his release are completed.

Hope For New Foothold

The Conservation Department is still in the dark concerning the next step in the marten operation. No word apparently has been received from Canada indicating how many more martens will be supplied, if any. (It is reported, however, that one Canadian is now engaged in live-trapping martens.) Nor does the Conservation Department know for certain where the animals will be released, although the chances are that either the Porcupine Mountains or the Huron Mountains in Marquette County will be selected.

Until those questions are answered, the lone importation will be cared for at the Cusino station.

Once found over most of the Upper Peninsula, the shy marten retreated when logging operations and civilization began to deprive him of his preferred habitat. Since then, some Northern Michigan land has reverted to the type favored by martens, and game men are hopeful that the attractive animal can gain a new foothold in this region.

Western Bird Species Found In Dickinson

CHANNING — A couple species of birds generally found only in western states apparently are moving eastward into the Upper Peninsula.

R. L. DeGayer, of nearby Silver Lake reports having seen the two species—magpie and Brewer's blackbird—in this Dickinson County area. He said he saw a magpie, the striking black and white member of the crow family, flying across a road near Channing this year. He also reported seeing hundreds of Brewer's blackbirds in the Silver Lake area this year. The identification, DeGayer said, was based on observation of the bird in hand.

Holds Collector's Permit

DeGayer said the Brewer's blackbird was seen in this area for the first time last year, but that a single bird had been observed near Ironwood by an ornithologist about three years ago.

DeGayer is a student of bird life. He holds a permit to collect certain birds for scientific and artistic (painting) purposes.

Among other unusual bird observations made by him is the reported finding of a summer tanager nest a mile and a half south of Silver Lake a year ago.

Writer Offers Explanation In Deer Mystery

By MOPF NEFF

The hysteria that swept the emotions of deer hunters this year is slowly subsiding.

Strange reactions are taking place across the land. Deer herds that were exterminated are suddenly leaving a vast network of tracks in the snow. And the mystery of the invisible deer is bringing forth challenging answers from many quarters.

Doe Getting Smarter

A logical explanation of the absolute fact that far fewer deer were seen by hunters in the Lower Peninsula this fall is that, after two years of bombardment, the doe is obeying the laws of self preservation and is learning to be as wary as the buck. They have learned to take cover in deep swamps far from highways — swamps that defy the invasion of hunters. A marked decrease in hunters gave them more security, too, for the only way to keep deer on the move is to put a large number of hunters in the woods.

This writer flew over the scrub oak country between Grayling and Gaylord scores of times late in the fall, and during the deer season. The stubby trees and sparse foliage made ground visibility excellent. No more than a half dozen deer were spotted in a month's time in the entire area. During the gun season none were seen at all. Yet now, with good tracking snow, the section just north and east of Frederick is virtually trampled with deer tracks. It's hard to believe. The same phenomenon is happening elsewhere.

Resentment Still High

The complicated importance of the deer herd to the north, involving tourist economies as well as sportsmen, has kept the angry pot boiling in many communities. So many suggestions are forthcoming as to the proper method of herd control that all is confusion. Some groups are beating the drums asking that the power of control be taken away from the Conservation Department. They don't follow through with a suggestion as to what to do with that power, or who should decide on deer hunting regulations. As Representative Emil Peltz said in a recent mass meeting in the north, "You'll never be satisfied," meaning that so many people had so many different ideas that any plan for the future would find plenty of hecklers.

Michigan's deer problem will probably remain the most controversial issue in the entire history of Michigan outdoors.

Northern Peninsula
OUTDOORS

LATTER DAY PIONEER—You are looking at pictures of what probably is the first pine marten to visit the Upper Peninsula in many a decade. He is pictured at the Cusino Wildlife Experiment Station in Alger County where he is being lodged until plans for his release in a wilderness area have been completed. So far, the marten (about the size of a large gray squirrel) has thrived in temporary captivity, despite the fact that his kind shows a marked preference for deep wilderness areas. He is being fed a diet consisting largely of meat. Shy by nature, the marten gives a good account of himself when aroused to anger. —(Mining Journal Photo.)

Year In Review: Grand Jury Probe Topped News Stories In Conservation Field In '54

The Upper Peninsula was the scene of a considerable amount of conservation and outdoor news during 1954, but none of the stories aroused as much reader interest as the account of the grand jury probe of Conservation Department activities in the Northern Peninsula.

Following secret grand jury investigations, dismissal of seven Conservation Department employees was recommended. Later, one of them was exonerated and six were suspended for various periods of time. Of the six, one later resigned and another appealed the decision. A Civil Service Hearing Board cleared him of the charges and ordered him reinstated.

Multiple Bear Seasons Ended

Another major news story developed early in the year when the Conservation Commission ended multiple bear seasons in the Upper Peninsula. The multiple seasons brought protests from sportsmen's groups who demanded—and got—a reduction in legal bear shooting periods.

Early in the year the Conservation Department introduced Hungarian partridge near Sault Ste. Marie, and the flock apparently came through the winter in good shape. The department also announced plans this year to release pine martens in one or more parts of the Upper Peninsula.

Aerial Herbicide Spraying

Several tests were made in 1954 for the first time in Upper Peninsula history. The Conservation Department undertook herbicide spraying by air on Drummond Island to help improve sharp-tailed grouse habitat, the first time aerial application of herbicides had been attempted in this region.

In March, the Michigan United Conservation Clubs held their first annual Upper Peninsula meeting. The site selected was Escanaba.

First Hare Trial In Enclosure

The Gogebic Range Beagle Club in September staged the first hare trial ever conducted in the United States within an enclosure.

Several "firsts" were accomplished at the Marquette fish hatchery during the year. Lake trout eggs were produced there, marking the first time a hatchery had succeeded in fertilizing lake trout eggs in Michigan. The hatchery also took credit for producing the first "spike" eggs in the United States. The spike is a cross between a speckled trout and a lake trout. And, the hatchery obtained fertilized eggs from siscowet and common lake trout, possibly the first time that type of hybridization has been achieved anywhere.

Large-Scale Expansion Program

During 1954 the Marquette hatchery marked the completion of a large-scale expansion program that made it what is regarded by some as the best hatchery of its kind in the United States.

At the state's 11 hatcheries, pellet fish food effected a savings of $41,500, while the number of fish planted in state waters again exceeded the 2,000,000 mark. Research continued to see if fishing regulations could be further relaxed to provide more angling enjoyment for all, and the state continued to develop the popular public fishing site program.

Record Bobcat Bagged

Several records were established during the year. Albert Erickson, Iron River, bagged a 32-pound, seven-ounce bobcat in Iron County, officially considered the largest wildcat ever taken in Michigan.

Field & Stream magazine announced that a 13-pound, seven-ounce rainbow trout taken from the Rook River in Alger County had won first place in the rainbow class, eastern division, in that publication's nationwide fishing contest. The big "bow" was landed by a Milwaukee attorney who used a fly rod and a mere four-pound test leader and succeeded in landing his prize catch only after a two-hour fight that began in the river and ended in Lake Superior.

Kingsford Man's Prize Brookie

A five and a half pound brook trout caught in a Dickinson County stream by Edwin Bergman, Kingsford, probably was the biggest brookie taken in the Upper Peninsula during the year.

Sea Lamprey Battle

State parks set a new record for attendance in 1954 with about 15,000,000 visitors, an increase of 1,000,000 over the previous record year, 1953. Tahquamenon Falls State Park established a record of its own on July 4 when nearly 6,000 persons visited the park.

Deer Season Developments

The Upper Peninsula deer season this year was similar in many respects — weather, hunting pressure, kill figures — to last year's season. Four persons were killed by gunshot during the course of the season in the Northern Peninsula.

Statewide, deer herd management progressed with the third year of special seasons and the Conservation Department was confident the work was achieving the desired result — to harvest the herd each year so it fits the range.

In spots, the range already has shown some improvement since special seasons were stated, according to the department, and in the last two winters, both admittedly mild, almost no loss occurred through starvation.

Protection For Hawks, Owls

The year also saw protection placed on hawks and owls, bird which the department said had long suffered from needless killing. State forests received considerable conservation emphasis. Only 3,884 acres were damaged by fire, a record low loss total for a single year.

Fishermen Get Warning On Danger Of Thin Ice

Look out for thin ice! Already in this ice fishing season, several drownings and near-drownings have been reported.

State fisheries workers urge extreme caution until surface layers of ice have chance to thicken.

Three Conservation Education Parleys Scheduled In U. P.

A series of three district conferences on conservation education for teachers of the Upper Peninsula has been tentatively scheduled for mid-February.

Plans call for the conferences to be held in Newberry, Feb. 15, with Hugo Kilpela, Luce County school superintendent, as district chairman; Marquette, Feb. 16, Paul Kotila, Marquette, principal of Graveraet High School, district chairman, and Iron Mountain, Feb. 17, Bruce Guild, superintendent of the Iron Mountain High School, district chairman.

Purpose Of Conferences

Dorcas J. Curry, Marquette, regional chief of the Conservation

Department, said the purpose of the district conferences is to attempt to improve and expand the conservation education program in public schools. Curry is general chairman of the conservation education planning committee which set up the district conference program.

Groups and individuals who will be invited to the district conferences include representatives from sportsmen's clubs, the Conservation Department, Northern Michigan College of Education, Michigan Department of Public Instruction, service clubs, Michigan State Library, Upper Peninsula Curriculum Planning Committee, teachers, school administrators and other interested individuals and agencies.

Munuscong Scholarships

Plans for the district conferences were set up at a recent meeting in Marquette. During the meeting, George Butler, professor of conservation at NMCE, suggested the possibility of establishing scholarships to pay a portion of the costs met by teachers attending the college's Munuscong Conservation Laboratory in Chippewa County.

Curry pointed out that sportsmen's clubs in the Upper Peninsula might be willing to undertake establishment of this type of scholarship program as club projects. He said the matter would be discussed at a series of meetings to be held in late January and early February under the joint sponsorship of the Conservation Department and the Northern Michigan Sportsmen's Association.

Guid reported at the planning meeting on the Dickinson County School Camp, stating that the camp would be ready for a year-round occupancy next spring. The camp will accommodate between 50 and 75 pupils, Guild said.

U. P. Arrests For Archery Violations 15

A total of 15 persons, only two of them from the Upper Peninsula were arrested during the archery season in Northern Michigan, according to figures obtained by the Upper Peninsula Field Archery Association.

Names of all of the violators have been sent to the National Field Archery Association and the Michigan Bow Hunters Association. If any of the individuals named is a member of either group, he will be suspended.

Eight Non-Residents

More than half of those arrested — eight — were from out of Michigan. The remaining five violators were from downstate.

Violators and charges on which they were arrested were: Tony Granato, White Pine, strung bow in car; F. C. Zwielfel, Marquette, strung bow in car; Frank Camborn, Adrian, killing doe in county in which bucks only were legal; Walter Clark, Fremont, hunting after hours; Donald Cook, Detroit, strung bow in car; Lawrence Cook, Detroit, strung bow in car; John W. Fulgenzi, Royal Oak, using artificial light; Harry Bottcher, Chicago, strung bow in car; Charles Gresson, Hales Corner, Wis., using artificial light; George Marchinick, Whiting, Ind., strung bow in car; Charles Murphy, Melrose Park, Ill., using artificial light; Russell Pearson, Chicago, strung bow in car; Kenneth Pomerville, Hammond, Ind., strung bow in car; Julius Seitz, Forest Park, Ill., using artificial light; Donald Utley, Milwaukee, using artificial light.

2-Year-Old In Missouri Attacked By Buck Deer

A strong moral lesson about wildlife was contained in a recent report from Missouri, showing what happens when wild animal instincts are taken too lightly or forgotten entirely.

A woman near Gainesville, Mo., was attracted by the screams of her two-year-old daughter, playing in the back yard. The mother checked and found the girl cornered by a buck deer that repeatedly reared and struck at the child.

The woman grabbed the family 22-caliber rifle and dropped the animal with a shot through the head.

It was then learned that the deer had been something of a pet in the neighborhood after being found, nursed and fed as a fawn.

A View On Research

WE are very much impressed with a recent statement by Lester Bagley, Wyoming state game and fish commissioner. His statement, one which should be of interest to every hunter and fisherman, appeared in the Wyoming Wildlife Magazine and is reprinted herewith: We "live in an age of wonder drugs, anti-biotics and synthetic fabrics. We move along at high speeds with automatic transmissions, super fuels and jet engines. We watch television and cinemascope and listen to transoceanic broadcasts. We anxiously await fulfillment of promise of nuclear fission aircraft engines and of cures for TB and cancer.

"ONE leading manufacturer boasts over the air waves that his most important product is progress through scientific research. We all appreciate the benefits we derive from continuing research in industry. Likewise, we're ready to accept an AMA finding regarding polio or a report from an engineering institute on some new discovery.

"WE fish with nylon leaders, with fiberglass rods, with reels made of new alloys. Scientific research has given us new powder for our cartridges and new combinations of metals for our bullets. New metals insure rifle barrels with life-long accuracy. We live in a wonderful age of scientific advancement and we take full advantage of it in the fields of medicine and industry.

"ISN'T it odd then, that the modern-day sportsman sometimes expects game management to ride in a buggy and yet keep up with present heavy demands on fish and game? Propagation of game animals by strict law enforcement alone or propagation of fish by planting alone are as dated as the mustard plaster and the kerosene lamp. Yet some persons insist that these two practices are sufficient. They regard scientific research in wildlife matters as a stupid innovation.

"IF the public wishes to maintain its wildlife resources, it must be as ready to give serious thought to findings of a wildlife biologist as it is to accept the products of the industrial worker."

Data For Deer Management

Common during deer season were scenes such as this at a Conservation Department roadside checking station. In the foreground, a state biologist explains to a hunter how the age of deer, like horses, can be determined by wear on teeth. In the background, another biologist checks a deer for a hunter.

Marquette Sportsman Tells Of Hunting Auerhahn, Rehbock And Stag In Germany

MARQUETTE — Few Americans have ever seen an auerhahn. Fewer still have ever killed one of these great birds, the largest European grouse.

One American who has killed one of the elusive birds is Rick Nelson, Marquette, post office inspector whose territory covers the entire Upper Peninsula with the exception of Ontonagon and Gogebic Counties.

Has Hawk-Like Beak

Nelson's chance to hunt this prize bird came while he was serving in Germany in the Army of Occupation during 1948 and 1949. Using a 16-gauge shotgun, he bagged his trophy in the Bavarian Alps near Reit im Winkel on his sixth trip into the mountains.

The auerhahn is a bird that weighs between 10 and 15 pounds and looks like a cross between an eagle and a turkey. It is almost solid black except for a red area over the eye, white wing patches and purple on the breast and underparts. The tail is large and can be fanned out. The beak is hawk-like, although the bird feeds mostly on berries.

Expert Stalking Required

The trick in hunting the auerhahn, Nelson said, is to get close enough to the quarry to fire a shot. An extremely wary bird, the auerhahn takes wing at the slightest noise, necessitating expert stalking to bring the hunter within range. Often the stalking is done in pre-dawn hours when the male's mating calls help lead the hunter to his target.

Among other trophies taken by Nelson during his stay in Germany was an almost perfect specimen of a German rehbock, the tiny deer of the Old World. Nelson's prize rehbock, a large one, weighed only 70 pounds. He hunted the diminutive deer for an entire season before making the kill.

Compared With Venison

Nelson also bagged two stags in each of two seasons, one of them weighing about 300 pounds. He missed two chances to kill chamois, the small, goatlike antelope of the European mountain ridges. Another difficult quarry, the chamois allows the hunter only one shot before vanishing. Nelson said there were numerous wild pigs in the area but that he never hunted them.

He said the meat of the stag—which has a wonderful, elk-like call during the mating season—is very much like that of our Upper Peninsula venison, but that rehbock meat has a finer grain than white-tail venison. Nelson used a cut down 8 mm. Mauser, a German military weapon, for hunting both rehbock and stag.

All hunting seasons in Germany are open during mating seasons, Nelson said. The season on rehbock extends from June 1 to Sept. 1; on stag, during September and October. Doe rehbock may be taken only during the last couple of weeks of the season.

Preserves, Quotas, Leases

The hunting system in Germany strikes the American sportsman as being highly restrictive and favoring the wealthy only. It is based on a preserve and quota setup, with limits (or quotas) set on the preserve rather than on the individual.

The quota is determined by the number of rehbock or other game on the land and is established by a government official. The only persons permitted to hunt on the preserves are those who hold the hunting lease or rights. In the days before World War II, it was customary in Germany to let the leases out to the highest bidders. Thus, two situations generally frowned upon by American sportsmen were common in Germany:

Can't Hunt On Own Land

1. A single leaseholder might be able to take legally a dozen or more rehbock in a season. The quota laws are rigidly enforced.

2. Even if a farmer owns the land on which a preserve is located, he may not be permitted to hunt there — unless, of course, he were the highest bidder for the lease.

Phenomenal Hunting

For those few who held leases, however, the hunting was phenomenal by our standards. As a result of the lease system, a hunter not only could take an abundance of game, but usually had the woods all to himself.

When Nelson was in Germany, only Americans were permitted to do any hunting. Germans still weren't even allowed to have weapons. Consequently, the owner of a lease was willing to let Nelson use the lease. And Nelson, like any other enthusiastic gunner, welcomed the opportunity to indulge in a rare and memorable style of hunting.

Car Insurance Rate Reduced For Girls

NEW YORK — An insurance firm says it is cutting auto insurance rates for New York State women drivers under 25 because "young girls don't take the chances on the highway that boys do."

The Allstate Insurance Co. said Wednesday premiums on liability and collision insurance for women under 25 will be cut an average of 35 per cent.

Be Sure To Hear Discussion Of 'Social Security' For Farmers'

R.T. Hartwig Will Lead Talks On Important Theme

The first series of meetings are scheduled for Jan. 5 and 6. The afternoon of Jan. 5 at 1:30 p. m., we will meet at the Rock Lions' Club Building. On Thursday, Jan. 6, we will meet at the Garden Community Building and in the evening at the Flat Rock Township Hall starting at 8 p. m.

R. T. Hartwig will lead a discussion on "Social Security for Farmers" and also bring us up-to-date of filing an income tax return. To close the meeting, we will present some information on "Outlook for 1955."

We know that the three meetings are scattered widely over the county but Mr. Hartwig has a schedule that covers the entire Upper Peninsula and can only spend a short time in each county. If some community wishes a meeting at a later date, we will try our best to bring the information to you.

Farmers planning to grow certified seed oats in 1955 should order their foundation seed oats for planting immediately. We understand that a few bushels of a new variety is available. The new variety is Jackson and is adapted to Delta County. With the exception of Jackson, the only other varieties eligible for certification in the Upper Peninsula are Bonham and Clinton. We have blanks in our office to use in ordering your seed. Do not wait until the deadline — Feb. 1.

Kill Stumps This Winter

Are you still bothered with those old stumps shooting out suckers, or has that brush you cut a while ago come back to haunt you?

Often times, these cases of cutting trees or some brush do not end your worries. However, there is a remedy. B. H. Grigsby, Michigan State plant physiologist, points out that chemicals can be used — and during the winter months, too.

Woody vegetation can be killed by foliage sprays, bark sprays or by treating the cut stumps. There are two recommended sprays: One is a mixture of 2, 4-D and 2, 4, 5-T in fuel oil. From 2 to 4 quarts per ten gallons of oil is a good mixture.

On uncultivated trees, the lower 12 inches of trunk and any exposed roots should be sprayed until you can see some run-off. Trees with thick bark should be partly girdled to allow the chemical to penetrate.

Cut stumps can be treated with the same solution and used for bark spray. It gives good results on even large trees and those difficult to kill by other methods. The bark and outer two or three inches of the cut surface of the stump should be sprayed to the runoff point.

Bark and stump treatments may be made at all seasons, but best results are received from early spring applications.

Seed For New Oat Variety Has Been Released

Farmers in Delta county will have an opportunity to grow foundation certified seed for a new variety of oats just released by the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station.

The new oats, Jackson, has been tested and found superior to any variety grown in the central part of Michigan, points out agricultural agent Heirman. It also showed up well in U. P. plots during the past summer.

Leytor V. Nelson, extension specialist in farm crops at Michigan State College, notes that farmers interested in producing certified seed can purchase foundation seed up to Feb. 1, or until the supply is gone. They can buy it from the Michigan Foundation Seed Association in East Lansing.

Jackson is a yellow oat that showed good yields in central Michigan test with a high per bushel weight. Nelson emphasizes that it is not suited to the southern tier of counties because it is susceptible to leaf rust. Growers in the Thumb prefer white oats, so it is not recommended for that area.

Experiments showed test weights over 2 pounds per bushel heavier than other varieties. Jackson is a midseason oats, maturing several days later than Clinton. It produced seven bushel more per acre in Ingham county tests than any other variety and also topped the Tuscola tests.

Nelson points out that in some areas, the animal is not recommended for that area.

To begin with, we had something over 500 million acres of tillable land in the United States. More than half of our farm land has been damaged by erosion.

As you read this column, we are starting a new year. Have you picked up a farm account book to keep records on your farm operations in 1955? Let's not put off keeping records because we do not have a farm account book. If you want one, let me know and I will see to it that you get one free! Farm account books are easy to keep. One does not need all kinds of education to write figures in the proper column in the account book. At the end of the year, all you have to do is add them up to get your income and expenses.

Are you having trouble with slippery concrete floors in your dairy barns? You can help the situation by getting some phosphate fertilizer and sprinkle it on the floor. A 20 per cent superphosphate would be very good. Do not consider the cost of the phosphate fertilizer a loss because it will mix in with the barnyard manure and go into the land. The phosphate will give the added phosphate needed in the soil. About 1½ pound per animal each day will help greatly in preventing slippery floors.

Some folks have been asking about the feed grain supply for the feeding season 1954-55. The prediction is that the entire 1954 production will be used and that some corn will be drawn out of storage. This indicates that prices on corn will not come down but if anything, may go up. If you can get a good buy on corn, it may be wise to take it and not wait until spring.

We did not get hurt too bad on egg prices locally because we do not produce enough for local consumption. In some parts of the state, egg prices really hit bottom. The outlook for 1955 looks better, at least for the first six months. The feeling is that prices will drop again on eggs late in 1955.

Maintaining farm profits with declining farm prices is a major problem confronting anyone in the business of farming today. A substantial portion of the program will be devoted to a discussion of the adjustments a Delta farmer should consider to meet the problems ahead.

Time will be allowed for those attending to ask questions and participate in the discussion. It's a meeting for the whole family so let's mark the date on the calendar and plan to attend one of the meetings.

Series Of Farm Meetings Set

How does the new social security program affect farmers? What's new on income taxes? How can machinery and equipment maintain or increase farm profits. These and many other questions will be discussed at an important meeting being held on Jan. 5, 1:30 p. m. at the Rock Lions Club building, Jan. 6, 1:30 p. m. Garden Community building, and Jan. 6, 8 p. m., Flat Rock Twp Hall according to J. L. Heirman county agricultural agent.

R. T. Hartwig, farm management specialist from Michigan State College will be on hand for the meeting.

There are many income tax changes this year—most of which will be good news to farmers. These changes and other income tax problems affecting farmers will be discussed at the meeting.

Farm operators will be paying their first social security taxes in 1955. Here's an opportunity to obtain information and ask questions about an insurance program that will influence the future plans of every farm family.

Cattle Shipping Fever Can Be Prevented

By LEONARD T. VADER, DVM
This is a concluding article on the subject of shipping fever in cattle. In it are presented some of the questions that have come to me from time to time.

A farmer asks: "Can I vaccinate against shipping fever in case I have to move animals during the late fall, winter or spring months?" Yes. The use of adequate doses of hyperimmune serum before shipment and after arrival is your best insurance. Serum produces almost immediate protection.

How much serum is adequate and can I administer it myself? The average preventative dose is about 50cc (cubic centimeters) but this amount will depend on the age and weight of the animal. While there is no law against a farmer administering serum to his own animals, it would be my advice to employ your veterinarian. He is in a position to secure the best type of serum, knows how to best use it and knows how to deal with serum reactions which occasionally occur.

Is there a difference in serums? Yes. The serums available differ in antibody content. Some contain many more than others and are more powerful and offer more protection. The serums also differ in kinds of antibodies present. Some only protect against Pasteurella infections. Others protect against both Pasteurella and Corynebacterium infections. Serums always need refrigeration. They are perishable and costly. They are produced from the blood of extra immune, disease free cows who have had the disease and recovered.

Are there substitutes for serums that are cheaper but still offer protection? There is really no substitute for serum. Only serum gives to the animal immediately available antibodies to fight off disease. However, there are disadvantages also. I mentioned its high cost. Moreover, while the protection it gives is quite positive, it only gives short time protection—approximately 4 to 5 days. To overcome these short comings another product is also rather widely used as a partial substitute for serum. This other product is called a bacterin.

What is a bacterin and what can be expected of it? When should it be used? If you know well ahead of time that you are going to move certain animals, you could have your animals vaccinated with a bacterin 7-10 days before the move takes place. This bacterin is made up of killed sterile bacteria of the kind which, if alive, could cause "shipping fever." A bacterin cannot cause disease. It gives to the animal nothing, but stimulates the animal to produce its own antibodies. This takes several days but eventually provides more protection than serum. It is a much longer protection lasting months instead of days. The bacterin's great disadvantage in my personal opinion, is that, if given just before moving, the animal is not protected. Finally, the use of bacterin doesn't prevent the use of serum just before shipping but the additional cost may rule this extra protection out.

Have there been big changes in the methods of treating this disease? Have great advances been made? Veterinarians are not in agreement on this matter.

Some definitely prefer to use the sulfa drugs and continue to get favorable results. They are used both orally and intravenously. Others rely on the older antibiotics such as penicillin and streptomycin. It is very doubtful if penicillin has any effect on the Pasteurella organism but it is considered effective against the Corynebacterium type. Streptomycin is considered quite effective against the Pasteurella.

Almost all agree to the value of serum in treatment. It is like a blood transfusion. It is time tested. It can be used well in conjunction with other drugs.

Finally, such newer drugs as terramycin, aureomycin, bacitracin and tetracycline are gaining new uses but the costs are higher. Perhaps we should conclude that early and vigorous treatment of "shipping fever" may outweigh the choice of drug used.

Class Of 1949 Holds Reunion

The Gladstone High School Class of 1949 held its five-year reunion this week at the Dells Supper Club. So successful was the event that it was decided to set aside funds with which to hold a 10-year event.

Keith Bergman acted as toastmaster for the short after-dinner program which followed the banquet. Included on the program was an address of welcome, roll call and presentation of awards. Mock awards were given to members of the class who served in the armed forces, mothers, housewives, college graduates and career people. Pants Didn't Make The Man

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—"Hurry," the excited caller told police headquarters. "There's a man hanging from a window on the 12th floor of the hotel."

Police squad cars reported back, "Just a pair of pants drying—cancel call."

Freeman Francis, a clothes presser at the hotel, had washed the trousers and hung them out the window on a piece of wire to dry. To the excited passerby the shadow of the swaying trousers on the side of the building looked like a man.

Notre Dame Wins Sugar Bowl Tournament Title

(By The Associated Press)

Tournament championships were scattered all over the country today as collegiate basketball's holiday classics headed into their final stages.

Six championships were decided Thursday night with George Washington, Missouri, Notre Dame, Maryland, Dartmouth and Lafayette capturing tourney crowns. Two major classics — the ECAC Festival at New York and the Queen City Tournament at Buffalo, N.Y. — still are to be decided.

George Washington, the nation's ninth-ranking team, posted a 89-75 victory over Richmond to win the first annual Richmond Invitational.

Irish Win Crown

Eleventh-ranked Missouri annexed the Big Seven Conference Tournament with a decisive 89-71 win of Kansas State.

Notre Dame's Johnny Stephens provided a 24-point scoring impetus as the Irish dethroned Holy Cross 74-69 to win the Sugar Bowl crown. The teams tied 29-29 at halftime. Stephens got 18 points in the second half.

Maryland joined once-beaten Cincinnati 78-61 to take the Kentucky All-American city title. The smooth and steady Terrapins were in command all the way as they won the championship for the second straight year.

Tickets On Sale For Hawks Opener Tuesday

Announcement of reserved seat ticket plans was made today by business manager Jim McNicoll as the Escanaba Hawks prepare for their home NMO Hockey League opener against Portage Lake Tuesday night.

Reserved seat tickets for sections B, C and D are on sale at Gus Asp's and the Quality Home Furniture Store. Season tickets have also been on sale and will be sold up to game-time, 8:15, Tuesday night.

In the meantime the Hawks ran through a spirited workout last night on home ice for the first time this season. Coach Mark Olson directed the workout and was pleased with the performance of the Hawks.

Previous workouts were impossible because of the thaw that took away the thin layer of ice at the fairgrounds exhibition building last weekend.

Local players Bud Provo and Bill Suriano were standouts in the session last night. Suriano, rugged little wing who resembles Olson in action, was the busiest man on the ice. Provo also had a hard workout as did Mike Otis, Escanaba High School student.

Outstanding among the Canadian players was Joe Nogalo, strong defenseman.

The Hawks will be facing the top team in the league Tuesday night in the form of the Bukovich-led Portage Lake.

With the ice in good shape at the exhibition building, weekend drills are planned to sharpen the Hawks for the opener. They will work out again at 3 this afternoon and on Sunday evening.

Spartan Cagers Squelch Rally

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State's basketball squad scotched a second half rally Thursday night to cash in a 20-point half-time edge and defeat Penn State 85-74.

The Spartans turned in a sloppy performance in the second half after leading 53-33 at the half but staved off a furious Penn State comeback try mostly by using two men to box high scoring Jesse Arnette.

The 6-foot-5 Pennsylvania center has been averaging better than 30 points a game. The Spartans held him to 11 points in the first half and 18 for the entire game.

Forward Al Ferrari, who made 18 of his 22 points in the first half, led the heavy Spartan attack in the first half but went out on fouls with nine minutes left in the second. Center Bob Armstrong was high for MSC with 26 points.

Forward Bob Hoffman led Penn State with 21 points.

The victory gave Michigan State a 3-3 won-loss record before beginning Big Ten play next week. Penn State has won six and lost three.

Four Big Ten Cage Teams Win Over Outside Quints

CHICAGO (AP)—Four Big Ten basketball teams, tuning up for the start of the conference title race next week, made a grand slam of victories over outside opponents Thursday night.

The championship chase will open Saturday with Wisconsin at Illinois in the only Big Ten game of New Year's night but will gain a full head of steam next week.

Records Fall In Chicago Action

CHICAGO (AP)—Veteran distance runner Fred Will, making his first competitive start of the season, Thursday night set one of eight meet records in the University of Chicago Holiday Track Meet.

Will toured the two mile run in 9:14.7, beating the record of 9:22.8 set by Kikuo Morioka of Wheaton College in the inaugural meet last year. He was never headed and won by 25 yards over Phil Coleman of Chicago while defending champion Morioka finished third.

Other records broken:
Shot put — Bob Thiesen, Chicago CYO, 49 feet 10 1/2 inches (old record, 47-11 1/2 by Thiesen).

880 — Gene Maynard, Illinois, 1:54 (old, 1:54.6 by Maynard).

Pole Vault — Eeles Lindstrom, Michigan freshman from Finland, 14 feet 4 inches (old, 13-1 1/2 by Dale Foster, Illinois, — old fieldhouse record 14-3 1/2 by Don Laz, Illinois, 1950).

Cotton Bowl Is Figured Tossup

DALLAS (AP)—Everybody was agreed today that the Cotton Bowl football game between Arkansas and Georgia Tech will be so close a bounce of the ball may decide it.

The coaches are picking the other to win.

The sports writers are divided nine to seven, in favor of Arkansas.

Arkansas was in tip-top shape for the game, without a single injury or sniffle, while Georgia Tech was able to have all its men in uniform for the first time Thursday. Flu and injuries have handicapped the Tech workouts.

The odds fluctuated from three to six points on Georgia Tech and coach Bowden Wyatt of Arkansas said he figured that was about right. Tech coach Bobby Dodd disputed the odds on his team and said he figured Arkansas ought to be favored.

"Arkansas is ninth in the nation and we're not even in the top 20," Arkansas is the best single wing team I've seen in a long time."

The only game for a Big Ten team tonight is Princeton at Northwestern.

Junior College of Jacksonville, Tex., came to the rescue with 6-7 Bob Burrow, the "Bevo Francis of Junior College Basketball."

Burrow got off to a slow start against Louisiana State, but scored with 12 of 30 shots against tough Temple and grabbed 34 rebounds.

He is the lone out-of-stater on the roster.

With Burrows, Rupp put veteran Jerry Bird, 6-6, underneath Southpaw Phil Grawemeyer, 6-7 1/2, helps off the boards. Grawemeyer has a fine outside shot to boot.

Bill Evans and Linville Puckett hold down the back court. Evans can be murderous if the defense backs off in an attempt to hold down the height problem Kentucky presents underneath.

Evans is a familiar story, as far as Kentucky is concerned. This is his fifth year in the school. He is

Kutches Wins Second Wyoming Grid Letter

Pete Kutches, former St. Joe Trojan athletic great, was one of 31 members of the University of Wyoming football squad who received varsity letters this fall.

It marked the second varsity grid letter earned by Kutches at the Cowboy College. A wingback in 1953, Kutches was shifted to the vital tailback spot this year and shared duties there with two highly-regarded sophomore stars, Jerry Jester and Jim Crawford.

Kutches made a vital contribution to Wyoming's successful gridiron season under coach Phil Dickens. Kutches carried the ball 41 times this year for a 4.1 average gain per try, picking up 167 yards on the ground.

Used only in spots as a passer, Kutches came through with three completions in four aerials, good for 55 yards. Wyoming's No. 1 passer is Joe Mastrogiovanni, regarded as one of the top college passers in the nation.

In the scoring department, Kutches had his best year as a Cowboy griddier, registering 26 points. He was the fourth highest scorer on the team.

Kutches, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kutches, 1607 Stephenson Ave., spent the Christmas holidays visiting here.

Portage Lake Mauls Marquette Sentinels 11 To 3 At Palestra

MARQUETTE — Winger Jackie Ruelle scored five goals as the NMO League champion Portage Lake Pioneers mauled the Marquette Sentinels, 11-3, at the Palestra here last night.

The visitors rapped in six tallies in the opening period, Ruelle getting three of them. Marquette came back stronger to make a game of it in the last two periods, but the margin was too big to overcome.

A crowd of 1,900—biggest of the season—twice showed its dissatisfaction with Matt Pavelich's officiating by showering the ice with paper. The first such incident occurred after he had called three straight penalties on Marquette early in the second period.

Bark River City Five Wins Opener By 59-56

BARK RIVER—The Bark River city basketball team opened the season with a 59-55 victory over Powers last night.

A trio of deadeyes, Jim Good, Dave Kwarcany and Wayne Erickson paced the Bark River team. Erickson's 16 points was high for the winners.

Dave Lawrence hit 19 and John Henderson 16 for the losers.

Rupp 'Rebuilt' Kentucky With Ready-Made Squad; Big Texan Is Only Non-Home-Grown

LEXINGTON, Ky. — (NEA) — Adolph Rupp, now in his 25th year as Kentucky basketball coach, seems to have a finally found the secret of winning basketball games with a minimum of wear and tear on the nervous system.

Not that the Baron has been doing badly. His over-all record shows an 85.6 percentage and last year's outfit went undefeated throughout a 25-game schedule. It's just that this year's edition of the Wildcats seems to co things so much more simply.

No less an authority than Ken Loeffler, coach of the defending NCAA champion, La Salle, concurs.

"The Wildcats catch three guys who are 6-6 or better around the basket and take six or seven shots at a time," he notes. "One of them goes in. They go back and give the other team one shot, grab the ball—and start all over again."

In a year supposed to be a rebuilding affair, Kentucky fans were presented with a club which, on any given night, is probably as fine a college team as ever has been assembled.

It took only five games for basketball people to begin rating this team with not only last season's Cliff Hagan-Frank Ramsey-Lou Tsioropoulos outfit, but also the once-Fabulous Five of the scandal-smashed Alex Groza-Ralph Beard era.

This year's Kentucky outfit may be dumped here and there along the way, but you'll have to chalk that up to the normal hazards of playing a 24-game college schedule.

Rupp had, you see, a ready-made squad. All that was needed was one more big man. Lon Morris, ineligible to compete in the NCAA tournament, as were Hagan and Company last year.

This shouldn't bother Rupp too much. All he has to do is reach along the bench and pluck off somebody like Gayle Rose, a senior who would star at 300 other schools.

Rupp, of course, is the last guy to admit all this.

"We have a long way to go," he says, then quickly goes into accolades about last season's team. The Baron maintains that was his greatest. This season is merely a rebuilding year, he professes to believe.

Nor does Adolph Rupp talk about the usual Kentucky freshman team Hary Lancaster is schooling. Five members of that outfit are 6-5 or better.

But they, of course, have a long way to go—four whole years before they graduate.

UCLA, No. 2. Because they appeared in the bowl last year, the Uclans are ineligible this year, so Southern California (8-3-0) will furnish the opposition.

UCLA whacked Southern Cal 34-0 during the season. Even so, Coach Woody Hayes of Ohio State declines comment on the outcome. His team will be favored by 13 1/2 points against the Trojans before a crowd of 100,300.

Duke Is Favored
Duke (7-2-1) is a 13 1/2-point choice over Nebraska (6-4-0) in Miami's Orange Bowl, where 68,000 are expected despite the total of six defeats and one tie on the two teams' records.

Georgia Tech (7-3-0) is a slight choice over Arkansas (8-2-0) in Dallas' Cotton Bowl. A capacity crowd of 75,504 is expected.

Some 60,000 are expected at the East-West game in San Francisco. The Gator Bowl gets the jump on the other bowls today with Auburn (7-3-0) favored over Baylor (7-3-0) before 34,000 at Jacksonville, Fla.

The rest of the bowl program Saturday:

Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex. — Texas Western (7-8-0) vs. Florida State (8-3-0).

Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla. (night)—Omaha University (9-0-0) vs. Eastern Kentucky (8-1-0).

Salad Bowl at Phoenix, Ariz. — Skyline Conference all-stars vs. Border Conference all-stars.

Prairie Bowl at Houston—Prairie View College (8-0-1) vs. Texas Southern (3-2-3).

Shrimp Bowl at Galveston, Tex. — Ft. Ord, Calif. (11-1-1) vs. Ft. Hood, Tex. (10-3).

Injuries Crash Navy's Lineup
NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Everything is in readiness for Saturday's 21st annual Sugar Bowl football game — except the Navy team.

All 80,735 tickets have been sold. The weatherman has promised cloudy skies with mild temperatures. Mississippi's Southeastern Conference title team is at hand, hale and hearty.

But four Navy players — three regulars and the team's oft-injured captain — are question marks. Coach Eddie Erdelatz won't know until late today just how many of his feverish four will be on hand for tomorrow's 1 p.m. (CST) kickoff.

Latest addition to the Navy's hospital list is Bob Craig, right halfback. He was taken to a hospital Thursday with what was described as acute tonsillitis.

Phil Monahan, captain and also a halfback, is wobbling about on a pair of injured knees. They have benched him for all but 30 minutes during the entire season.

Jim Royer, 21-pound tackle, and John Weaver, halfback and extra point kicker, are troubled with a hip bruise and a sore right knee, respectively.

The sailors, whose 27-20 conquest of Army brought them a season's record of seven victories in nine starts, was three-point favorite when it accepted the Sugar Bowl bid. Now it is no better than an even choice.

Michigan Teams Lose In Holiday Classic
HOLLAND (AP)—Michigan entries were defeated again Thursday night in the windup of the two-day Holiday Cage Classic. Beloit of Wisconsin smothered Hope, 126-81, and Lake Forest of Illinois defeated Albion, 71-55.

Mack Stanley led the Beloit attack with 30 points. John Adams was high for Hope with 18.

Forward Mascha Rader scored 23 points to pull Lake Forest to victory from a 34-32 halftime deficit.

In the opening round of the classic Lake Forest trounced Hope, 103-73, and Beloit defeated Albion, 84-62.

Duke Favored By Two TDs Over Nebraska
MIAMI (AP)—The odds favoring Duke over Nebraska by two touchdowns remained steady today as the two football teams went through their last limbering-up exercises for Saturday's Orange Bowl football game.

Both teams were at full strength. "My squad is in good condition, physically and mentally," said coach Bill Murray of Duke's Atlantic Coast Conference champions. Nebraska's coach Bill Glassford complained that his squad showed signs of dragging at times. Halfback Ron Clark, the only physical question mark in the Cornhusker camp, appeared to have recovered fully from an ankle sprain.

Flint Junior College Wins Ninth Straight
FLINT (AP)—Unbeaten Flint Junior College won its ninth straight basketball game Thursday night by defeating Central Michigan, 87-81, in the championship game of the Flint Collegiate Basketball Tournament.

Hillsdale defeated Lawrence Tech, 66-60, in the consolation game.

Center Joe Roberson scored 35 points to lead Flint to the 16-point victory. Forward Glenn Stuart was high for Central with 22 points.

Ken Blizard's 19 points was high for Hillsdale in the consolation game. Forward Walt Dzurus scored 15 points to hold up the Lawrence Tech defense.

Michigan State freshman Henry Kennedy won both the Canadian six-mile and Michigan AAU four-mile cross country titles in 1954. Kennedy's home is Toronto, Ontario.

Halfback Problems Face Rose Bowlers
PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Ohio State's national and Big Ten champions and Southern California's Pacific Coast representative, had halfback problems today as they neared Saturday's 41st Rose Bowl football game. Starters at key positions on each team were not decided.

Coach Woody Hayes of the Bucks was wavering between Bobby Watkins, fleet-footed 191-pound senior, and Jerry Harkader, 176-pound junior, for the starting job at right half.

Trojan coach Jess Hill still had to make up his mind about the left halfback job. Jon Arnett, 178-pound sophomore and the Trojans' all-around offensive leader, is battling Senior Aramis Dandoy for the starting call.

Perfect weather was predicted for the annual classic to be staged in the Arroyo Seco Bowl. More than 102,000 spectators will be on hand.

Three Bucks were definitely out of the game — halfbacks Jack Archer and Dick Young, and guard Bill Jobko. They have failed to recover from injuries. However, their loss was not expected to affect Ohio's 13-point margin as favorite.

Jim Decker, No. 1 fullback, Mike Dowell, No. 3 center, and Emilio Hilario, No. 4 right end, will be out of uniform for the Trojans.

The Ohio team will pit its split-T offense and rugged defense against the three - pronged offense of the Trojans. Southern Cal, during the 11-game campaign, ran 45 per cent of its plays from the single wing, and the rest from the split and regular T formations.

The game begins at 2 p.m. (4 p.m. CST), and the lights may be turned on for the late going.

Gordie Howe Regains Old-Time Scoring Eye

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings today looked ahead to the new year with good reason: Gordie Howe is scoring again.

The big right winger, plagued by a puzzling season-long slump, broke loose Thursday night for a pair of goals which led the way to an important 4-1 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs.

They were the 254th and 255th goals of Howe's career, making him in a tie for the team lead with Ted Lindsay, who is out of the lineup with a shoulder injury.

Howe triggered his 12th and 13th goals of the season in the Maurice (The Rocket) Richard, hockey's champion goal scorer, came up with his 22nd hat trick; Gordie Howe became Detroit's greatest goal scorer with two goals and the New York Rangers broke their 14-game winless streak.

All that happened in National Hockey League games Thursday night.

Richard chalked up his three goals to run his career total to 404 as the Montreal Canadiens defeated the Chicago Black Hawks 7-4.

Howe's two 15 footers ran his total to 255 in nine years, in Detroit's 4-1 triumph over the Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Rangers moved ahead of Boston into fourth place as they thumped the Bruins 6-1 with Dan Prentice accounting for three of the goals. The victory was New York's first since Nov. 28.

DeTour Firemen Awarded $750

DETROIT (P)—Fast work by De Tour's volunteer fire department which three weeks ago prevented a $40,000 fire at the Drummond Island plant of Drummond Dolomite Inc. from becoming five times as expensive, brought the volunteer firemen a $750 reward.

C. G. Knoblock, general manager of the Dolomite quarry, presented his company's check to Warren Carper, secretary-treasurer of the De Tour Volunteer Fire Fighters Assn. Besides being a volunteer fireman, Carper is president of the village of DeTour, and is himself an employee of Drummond Dolomite.

Knoblock previously had praised the efficiency of the DeTour volunteers, who, he said, on the evening of Dec. 6, kept a $40,000 fire from developing into a $200,000 one.

Maurice Ainsworth, chief of the DeTour volunteer department, said the money will be used to purchase boots, coats, helmets and other equipment.

Shutdown Is Brief At Studebaker Plant

DETROIT (P)—Studebaker-Packard Corp. says its shutdown of its South Bend, Ind., Studebaker plant for rearrangement of machinery was shorter than expected.

As a result, the company reported today, most employees are being called back to work a week earlier than had been planned.

Operations were halted Dec. 10 in what the company described as a move to make the South Bend production more efficient and to take inventory.

Ray P. Powers, vice president of operations, said more than half of the 10,000 employees now have been recalled. By next Monday, he said, all employees will be back and the Studebaker passenger car and truck plants will be operating at full schedule.

Michigan Mirror

Michigan will take another searching look at its blessings next May 15-21.

Cities and villages will swap mayors for a day and the citizenry will be told in an organized campaign what makes Michigan the "Water Wonderland."

It will be Michigan Week. "This is a sort of reverse public relations—telling our own people what they have," said Harris K. Miller, chief of the information and research division of the Economic Development department.

Dr. Grover C. Dillman, president of the Houghton College of Mining and Technology, will be the 1955 chairman, and he is looking for a theme for the special week.

"There is a good chance that when a theme is selected, it will emphasize the cultural side of our state," he said.

Michigan's woods and waters, its business and industry held the focal point in last year's celebration.

Promoters hope to tie in the centennial celebrations at the Soo Locks and Michigan State College. Special programs are planned for each.

Behind the Michigan Week observance is Greater Michigan, Inc., a special corporation organized for the purpose.

More than 300 mayors from Detroit (pop. 1,849,568) to Britton (pop. 517) traded offices last May 5 and "learned a lot of new ideas and received numerous honors from their new towns," Dr. Dillman said.

Biggest event during the 1954 celebration were the groundbreaking ceremonies for the new Straits of Mackinac Bridge at both St. Ignace in the Upper Peninsula and Mackinaw City in the Lower.

If featured parades, fireworks, street dances and speeches by Michigan notables.

"We want to make this one the biggest and best," Miller said.

Split-second Politics made the big difference when Gov. Williams appointed Talbot Smith, an Ann Arbor attorney, to fill a vacancy on the Michigan Supreme Court. Justice George E. Bushnell retired to take a high Masonic office in Boston, ending a long career on the bench.

Bushnell submitted to Williams his request for retirement status and applied for state pension benefits, effective Dec. 31, 1954—a date displeasing to the strategists.

If the retirement date had remained fixed, Bushnell's successor, appointed by Williams, would have faced a campaign for election in the Spring of 1955.

Bushnell changed the date to Jan. 1, 1955, leaving his successor in office unchallenged until 1956 when the term normally expires. One Democratic aid revived a popular song, quipping: "What a difference 10 days make."

Michigan's Top law enforcement officers want to catch gamblers in a Federal-state squeeze.

Gambling, except pari-mutuel betting at legalized horse tracks, is outlawed in the state but only this year has the situation developed for the new police proposal.

Federal authorities, realizing that gambling is legal in some states, asked—and got—from Congress a law requiring these sporting fellows to get a license.

Now, Michigan police, prosecutors and sheriffs, are asking the legislature to pass a law making possession of a Federal license a violation of the state statute against gambling.

"We want to make it a question of where a gambler wants to serve his prison sentence—in a Federal or State lockup," said one police officer.

Senate Republicans have softened their promise that they would confirm all of Gov. Williams' appointees in their jobs if he won re-election in 1954.

They held back action on 39 last winter to leave the appointments open if they elected a Republican governor. This is normal political strategy.

When Williams won again and swept in his entire ticket, the disheartened Republicans said they would blanket in the appointees held over and confirm 34 others named since the last session.

"Now we're not so sure," said Senator Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennville).

Hutchinson, chairman of the Senate business committee which first must approve appointments, said the chamber will have a dozen new faces next year and it would be unfair to foist a decision on them.

He said: "We'll look over all the appointments, as we have in the past, and judge their qualifications on their merits."

Probation Cuts Prison Crowding

LANSING (P)—The increasing popularity of probation among Michigan judges as a means of punishing criminals may be cutting down overcrowding in the state's penal institutions, state officials indicated.

John H. Spencer, assistant director of corrections in charge of institutions, said population of Michigan penal institutions leveled off during the last month.

"We're still overcrowded," Spencer said, "but the overcrowding hasn't been as bad as we had anticipated."

Spencer pointed to an expansion of the department's probation staff last month and the increasing use of probation as possible explanations for the leveling off.

Prison population in all state institutions during the last month has remained at about 9,600, he said, after climbing steadily during the first part of the year.

Fred Bates, in charge of probation for the department, said there were 18,600 persons on probation in the state at the end of October compared to 16,800 in October, 1953.

"I think judges are using probation in the state at the end of October compared to 16,800 in October, 1953."

"I think judges are using probation more and more," he said. "They apparently realize that prison would be very damaging to many first-offenders and that probation would have a much better effect."

"I'm convinced we could put 15 or 20 per cent more persons on probation than we do now and not suffer any ill effects," he added.

College Enrollments Will Double - - Hatcher

ANN ARBOR — By 1970 Michigan colleges will enroll around 200,000 students—virtually double the number they now have, President Harlan Hatcher of the University of Michigan predicts.

Speaking on a recent broadcast over University Station WUOM-FM, the University president maintained that one of the most serious problems which confronts colleges and universities throughout Michigan—and indeed throughout the United States—is an outgrowth of the huge baby-boom that occurred during World War II.

"These students of 1970 now are in our elementary schools," he pointed out. "In a few more years they will be enrolling in our colleges. Entrance requirements are already as high as I should like to see them go. I believe the basic solution lies in recognizing the need for increased facilities and meeting that need. We must make sure that these students will have a chance to get as far as their abilities will take them," he declared.

Asserting that there is no feature that will determine that the University can get just so large and no larger, President Hatcher said, "Somewhere there is a limit but no one knows where it is. It varies in the 15 schools and colleges that make up the University. The limit is rigid in medicine and flexible in the arts and education. When good teaching can no longer be provided, the limit will have been reached."

Discussing his belief that colleges must double in size in the next 15 years, President Hatcher stated that there are three current trends which when projected into the future indicate that:

- (1) Our population is on the increase. By 1970 it will be up 57 per cent over what we have today.
- (2) A greater percentage of the total population is going to college. In the year 1900, only three out of 100 attended college. Today the ratio is closer to 15 of every 100. In 15 or 17 years from now the ratio may be up as high as 20 or 25.
- (3) The students who come to college are remaining two or three years beyond the normal four-year courses to get advanced degrees.
